With his diploma finally in hand, Ty Koskela, 75, now plans a book

By ALISON ALOISIO

Ty Koskela has known days of labor. For more than half a century the 75-year-old farmer has worked his family's hillside farm in South Woodstock.

The labor was hard, but rewarding. Even during the Depression the Koskela family prospered.

Managing the farm also provided an intellectual challenge, but still, something was missing.

The young Koskela had left school when his father became ill and needed more help on the farm.

In leaving school he left behind his chance at earning a high-school diploma, but he could never quite put it out of his mind. "It bugged me for 60 years," Koskela said. "I wanted to get a diploma one way or the other."

This spring that determination was rewarded, when Koskela finally earned a GED.

'In that era farm boys belonged on the farm.'

TY KOSKELA

Depression-era farming

Koskela, the eldest of four children, left the Union School in South Woodstock in the mid-1930's.

"I didn't want to leave," he said. "I'll never forget the day I finally did. But in that era farm boys belonged on the farm."

The Koskela family was able to make a good living by applying the diversification theory of business to farming.

"We sold hay, and had cattle. We had over 1,000 broilers and laying hens, and sold potatoes and corn. If one thing failed, the others kept it going," he said.

Lumbering was another source of income. The farm's productivity was such that the military would not take him during World War II, because of the belief that successful farmers were more valuable to the war effort right where they were.

In those same years the Koskela family had been selling corn to a canning factory. The day finally came when Ty realized there was no future in it. "We had eight acres of corn, and a drought came along. We hauled one load of corn to the factory. After they deducted the cost of the seed, we got a check for $0.04. That was the end of selling corn for us," Koskela said.

He said he did some figuring on the wall of his barn and decided it was more worthwhile, even in good years, to grow the corn for silage.

"I showed the figuring to the corn inspector, and he said, 'I guess you're right.' You can still see the figures on the wall in the milking room," said Koskela.

He did have some opportunity to get off the farm -- he spent 19 years driving a school bus.

"I taught the kids to say good morning and good night when they got on and off the bus. They did the Local economic front:

Pipeline project promises tax boost

By MICHAEL DANIELS

A recently proposed 1,000-mile natural gas pipeline, known as the Trans-Alaska Pipeline, will not only provide a major boost to the local economy, but also promises to bring a significant tax boost to the area.

The new pipeline, which will run from the North Slope of Alaska to the Gulf of Mexico, is expected to be completed by 2000. It will provide a major boost to the local economy, and also promises to bring a significant tax boost to the area.

There are currently three main proposals for the pipeline. The first is the Trans-Alaska Pipeline, which would run from the North Slope of Alaska to the Gulf of Mexico. The second is the Trans-Mountain Pipeline, which would run from the Alberta oil fields to the Gulf of Mexico. The third is the Trans-Canada Pipeline, which would run from the Canadian oil fields to the Gulf of Mexico.

The Trans-Alaska Pipeline is the most likely to be built. It would provide a major boost to the local economy, and also promises to bring a significant tax boost to the area. The Trans-Mountain Pipeline is also a possibility, but it would require a major investment in infrastructure. The Trans-Canada Pipeline is the least likely to be built, as it would require a major investment in infrastructure.

nation System (PNS), a consortium comprising several large Canadian and American natural gas companies.

The consortium expects to spend nearly a billion dollars a mile on the new pipeline, according to John Hammett, a PNS spokesman.

At current tax rates, the new pipeline would add approximately $100 million a year in additional property taxes in the area, according to Hammett.

Over the past several years, the town of Bethel has paid $51,896,939 in taxes in total, or 14 percent of the town's total tax commitment.

Bethel, the pipeline's port of entry, has been paid $100 million for the pipeline's use.

The pipeline's use of the town's land is a major concern. The town has been paid $100 million for the pipeline's use, but the pipeline's use of the town's land is a major concern.

the complicated permitting process. Hammett said, and a third year for construction. If all goes well the new pipeline would be operational by November 1998, he said.

PNS will provide increased access to natural gas supplies from a variety of U.S. and Canadian natural gas production and storage areas. Through interconnections with Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. in Canada and the Tennessee Gas Pipeline System in the U.S.

According to PNS, the new pipeline will have a positive economic impact along the proposed route, through direct and indirect economic development as well as through the new property tax revenues.

Hammett said the company will soon begin building informational materials for selection, planning and construction. The company will also be looking for interested residents along the pipeline route.

But Locke Mills grocery once again runs out of gas

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Locke Mills's now-you-see-it-now-you-don't grocery store will fade away again next week.

A lack of business has forced the closing of the Shurline Market, according to Cary LaSalle, a retail counselor for Associated Grocers of Maine. LaSalle was at the store last week preparing for the closing.

AG has operated the market since 1992, when it reopened amid high hopes locally that the grocery chain's resources and experience would finally make it possible for the site to succeed as a market.

But next week's closing will mark the third time in less than 10 years that a grocery business there has ended with dwindling stock and empty shelves and locked doors.

While LaSalle said there is a lack of business for the latest closing, he also said that with more corporate support, especially in the form of advertising, they could have made a go of the business.

"The big bosses chose not to print flyers, and it's been downhill ever since," said one employee (who asked not to be identified). Others who spoke with The Citizen seconded the view. They were also critical of the lack of control given the store managers.

The Shurline currently employs about a dozen people, all but two of them part time.

Plans to the Shurline headquarters for further information on the closure and future plans for the building were not returned as of press time.

Old Speck tower work scheduled

By MICHAEL DANIELS

If the weather cooperates, by the end of this month the area's finest foliage vantage point will once again be open to the public.

Repair work on the Old Speck Mountain fire tower is scheduled for the weekend of Sept. 22-24, according to Andy Haskell, manager of Grafton Notch State Park.

The project should be completed by the end of the weekend, Haskell said, thanks in part to volunteer muscle power and the heavy-lifting capability of a National Guard helicopter.

The 40-foot-high tower, formerly a fire watch tower, was closed by the state in August of 1994, due to concerns about its safety.

Local pro wins N.E. golf crown

John H. Hickson, a left-handed and right-handed player at the Bethel Inn & Country Club, won the New England PGA Championship last week at the Old Course Club in North Andover, R.I.

Hickson, who is married, is the first left-handed player to win the championship in the 75-year history of the tournament.

Hickson, 41, finished the tournament with a three-under-par 210 in the three days of the championship.

With his win, Hickson added to his list of the Sullivan Free NEPGA Player of the Year Standing. He has already qualified for the National Club Professional Championship at Pleasant Valley Country Club and will be exempt into the PGA Tour's 1996 New England classic at Pleasant Valley.

Hickson, from Hampden, joined the Bethel Inn staff this year.

Rebel booters aim to topple Mt. Valley

By ALISON ALOISIO

With a strong defense and plenty of depth, Telstar coach Bob Remington expects his Rebel team to give up all of Mountain Valley High School all they can handle this season.

The defense is pretty much intact from last year. Our depth is more than it's been in the past. I usually carry 17 or 18 players, and generally the last three or so are more questionable. But I can put any one on the field and it doesn't weaken the team," he said.

Returning varsity players include seniors Ben Fogg (sweeper), Adam Newell (forward), and Keith Stevens (forward). Juniors Cory Koch (midfield), Tony Baker (forward), Wade Lupton (back), Clint Myers (midfield), Jason Berry (back), and Tim Adams (back) and sophomore Jason Mullen (midfield).

Moving up from the J.V. squad are senior Dan Wrigley (forward), juniors Peter Gordon (midfield), Tim Herbert (midfield), Fred and Dan Emerson (backs), Quentin Baker (forward), and sophomores Jeremy Laplante (forward), Jerry Greenwell (back), and Shaun Wheeler (goalie). Freshman Chris Vaughan (midfield) also joins the team.

The Rebels had some offensive strength to graduation, including school scoring record holder Tim Remington. But coach Remington hopes the offense will improve with experience playing together.

"I think we're one of the best teams in the conference, and I think we can give Mountain Valley their toughest competition," he said.

Last year's Telstar team finished with a record of 6-5-1, just missing the playoffs, while Mountain Valley won the conference title.

This year Telstar plays Mountain Valley twice.

"We always give them tough games -- it's one of the best games of the season. We have a friendly

STUDENT DISTRESSED BY CUT

To the Editor:

I am a distressed student at Telstar High School, striving to complete my last year of education before college. This goal is expected to be extremely difficult, due to the $500,000 budget cut. A cut which taxpayers demanded and the School Board had to deal with.

I am not sure who is happy with this cut. I doubt the taxpayers will be, for $500,000 spread around will not make much of an impact on individual taxes. I know the students and teachers are not satisfied, for their choices are drastically reduced and the budget cut has made for a much more difficult year for everyone. The Guidance Department, with just one counselor now, cannot be happy or efficient with every student coming in to fix their schedules and finding very few choices available. Parents cannot be happy with the knowledge that their children are receiving less of an education and the need to pick up their children more often because of the cut in buses. The School Board, with the knowledge of the inept choices they made in cutting what they did, can't be too gratified with the results. So, I am left confused and frustrated, not knowing who is benefiting from the budget cuts resulting in a sacrifice to my education.

I am now unable to take my fourth year in French. Due to a loss of teachers I am also not able to take the classes I would like to in order to best prepare myself for college. We do have some classes to replace those that have been cut; however, I am unable to see the educational advantage in a canoe-building course.

I find myself puzzled that education is targeted for extreme cuts and the rationale of those cuts being made. I feel sadness for the parents who must watch their children receive an inferior education. I feel sorry for the teachers, many of whom are under-appreciated for their hard work and long hours well beyond the six-hour school day. But most of all I feel sorry for the students who are the ones really being hurt by the cuts and ultimately, the community, which will be receiving less than adequately educated people from Telstar who will not have as much to offer as they would from a school well supported by the community.

JOIN THE MUSIC MAKERS

To the Editor:

The Mahosue Music Makers of Bethel are well into their second year of making music in the area. The original idea for the band was to play in Bethel's Molluscock Day Parade. Enough interest by the players and the community was generated to sustain the momentum and keep it going and growing. The band has played for the community with its own concerts as well as commemorative events, town festivals, Christmas and church round robins, almost wherever a touch of music is needed.

Most of the players came to the band saying that they hadn't played for years. Could they just get some help with fingering and music? I myself had only played during junior high, some 24 years ago. Some of us were not sure how or if we really ever did play before, like a barely remembered childhood memory, the musical notes may as well have been in Greek. But there is a camaraderie in the group that helps all members get through this time and get playing. We really did remember to make music, and it is fun.

New members are welcome to join at any time. Several players this year were summer residents of Bethel, and joined only for the summer season. If you ever played an instrument, consider joining the Mahosue Music Makers. Rehearsals are very informal and meet Mondays 7 to 9 p.m. at the West Parish Congregational Church, Church Street, Bethel. Please call Jonathan Smith, director, at 824-2556 or Elton Wilkey, secretary, at 824-2522, if you would like more information. If you have any ideas, requests for musical styles or to play at an event, comments or whatever, we would love to hear from you.

REAL MEN STEP UP TO THE BARRE

To the Editor:

They say real men don't cut quiche but real men work at the ballet barre and dance as is proven by Gould Academy's coach Dick Taylor's Nordic and coach Tim LaVallee's alpine skiers. They work out at the ballet barre and do center work across the floor to develop coordination, flexibility, agility and balance. The Eastern Block countries in Europe have long known the value of this lively art. Earl Mack, a rabid devotee of classical dance stated: "A dancer and a racehorse, when perfectly fit, are the ultimate in athletes."

Gene Kelly hosted a fascinating TV program a few years ago showing the similarity of a dancer's steps compared to the moves of an athlete. When the camera "freezes" the action in mid-air, it is amazing how alike basketball/football/basket moves are!

On my visit to Moscow I was privileged to be able to watch classes at the famous Bolshoi Theater conducted by the great ballet master, Yuri Gregorovich. I will never forget the class of 30 young men all working at the ballet barre and the strict discipline and hard work demanded of them. Ballet should be recognized as a strenuous sport.

Dance is neither feminine nor masculine. In many countries it is traditional for males to dance together in a very macho way. While the basic barre training for both boys and girls is the same, as the boys grow older bigger, stronger moves are incorporated with higher energy level for the boys in the class.

Dancing lessons can stretch a person's horizons and let him/her enjoy life more for it speaks to the aesthetic side of one's nature as well as the physical.

Let's hear it for all athletes this 1995-96 season.

same with the teachers, and they liked that. I enjoyed that part of my life with the kids," he said.

Learning along the way

Koskela has acquired considerable knowledge on his own over the years, from both skills learned in farming and his reading habit. Science magazines were a favorite. He also belonged to the Masonic Lodge, holding several offices that required giving lectures and presentations to large groups of people.

But for Koskela, it was never the same as having a diploma.

Another reminder of that void came last spring, with a newspaper notice about adult education classes.

He shared his feelings with his daughter, Linda. She encouraged him to consider getting a GED.

"I told him it wasn't a matter of intelligence, but of education and opportunity — which he never had," she said.

Linda then talked to Cathy Newell of the SADD Adult Education Department.

It wasn't long before Koskela got a phone call.

They (Newell and counselor Merrill Butters) said they'd like to talk to me," he said.

Ty Koskela's daughter now 'brags him up' to everyone

That was all he needed. He decided to go for the GED.

The reaction from his grand-children was immediate.

"My 9- and 10-year-old grand-daughters got right after me. They were so excited that I was going to go to school. My 10-year-old grandson made up some math problems for me. And they started studying harder in school, too," he said.

Despite his success as a farmer, Koskela had some reservations about being a student.

"I didn't know what to expect. It was scary," he said.

As it turned out, his years of learning proved to be all that was needed. He passed a series of tests leading up to the final GED exam.

Then, passed that, too. He earned the diploma without ever taking a class. That's unusual, according to Newell.

"It's a rare occurrence for some one to only take the test," she said. Linda says she "brags him up" all the time now.

"He just needed a little nudge. When his life gave him time, he did it. I'm just as proud of him as I can be," she said.

Still, Ty Koskela wishes he had been able to finish high school the usual way, when he was young.

"I'm self-taught, but it's not the same. A good reason to go to high school is to learn discipline, and how to get along with others. If you don't go, you don't get that mixing with other people," he said.

What's next?

Having fulfilled one lifelong wish, he's ready to start work on another — doing some serious writing. Koskela has enrolled in Jeanette Baldrige's Adult Ed creative writing class this fall. He has two projects in mind.

"I'd like to write a profile of a person — a friend — who's important to me, and I want to do it right. I also want to write a book about life on the farm. I think I have some things to say. It was quite an era — living on a dirt road, with no electricity, and a privy in the barn. It was quite an education if you stop to think about it," he said. "It's been a great life."

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the 30th annual meeting will be held on Thursday, Sept. 7, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning with a 6:30 potluck supper. During the business portion of the meeting, members who have died since the last annual meeting will be remembered, the Nominating Committee will report on officers and trustees to be considered for election, and the Noll Volunteer Service Award presented to an outstanding volunteer. The president will also report on some of the highlights of the past year. The program will feature a presentation by University of Maine professor Richard W. Judd on railroads and Maine tourism.

Those attending the potluck supper are requested to bring a salad, dessert or main dish. The meeting is open to anyone interested. Volunteers are needed to assist with reading "The Bethel Courier" aloud for members and friends of the society who are visually impaired. Tapes for this purpose will be provided by the society. Anyone who might like to consider this project, should call the society office at 824-2908.

Fires flare here and statewide

By ALISON ALOISIO

A woods fire in Grafton Notch Sunday evening was among many reported across the state this weekend.

The small blaze was located among ledges below Table Rock, making access difficult, according to Newry assistant fire chief Brad Wight. Wight said water had to be carried up to the site using Indian tanks.

Firefighters from Newry and Bethel were aided by Grafton State Park rangers and a Maine Forest Service helicopter, which dropped two loads of water on the fire.

The Newry fire department returned to the scene Monday morning to extinguish several hot spots, Wight said.

He said the fire was spotted from Speck Mountain by Newry resident Gary Wight. There were reports that a hiker had flicked a cigarette over the edge of Table Rock, but Brad Wight said that could not be confirmed.

Statewide, fires over the weekend averaged 10 to 12 a day, with about 100 reported during the last week, according to Jim Downie of the Maine Forest Service. So far, the fires have been small, with the largest covering five acres.

"There have been 41 lightning strikes in the past week. We're lucky there hasn't been a major fire so far," he said Tuesday.

He said some of the fires were believed to have been started by arsonists.

Drought could fuel danger

Downie also said leaves will likely be changing and dropping early due to the dryness.

"I expect them to change at least two weeks earlier than usual — earlier than in a long time," he said.

He said the time between changing and dropping will also be shortened because of the dryness.

That, in turn, could lead to a longer fall fire season, if rain doesn't arrive soon.

"Some of our most dangerous fires have occurred this time of year. We're keeping our fingers crossed — we need rain desperately," said Downie.

Until some rain arrives, the statewide ban on most outdoor fires is expected to remain in force.

Pot Smoke Draws Media

By MIKE BROWN

The Maine media seems fascinated with marijuana. Let the potheads organize a hayfield hemp rebellion and the media rushes forth like it had found a starship full of alien critters.

Or let some boondockeroo terminal hippies complain about helicopters scaring the bejesus out of their winter bacon porkers and the journaletto crowd plays it again, Sam.

The media was bawling all over its ink and tapes a couple weeks ago that Hempstock, or whatever that mud hole wrasse was called, didn't haul in enough cabbage to pay the fuzzbusters hired to contain the smoke eaters.

Probably the media fascination is because of culture compatibility. Whatever, the media should get its act and facts together about the dangers of pot and stop this Bonnie and Clyde glamorization of the illicit drug.

Certainly Gov. Angus King hasn't been any help. One of his first stupid moves as head Dirigo man was to ground helicopters, the very best enforcement and interdiction tool against pot traffickers.

Without consulting the drug enforcement cops on the ramifications of no helo sweeps, King sided with the pothead crowd like Maine Vocals who want to legalize marijuana. Actually, King didn't go so far as to say he wanted to legalize the loco weed, but he did say he wasn't going to let the state drug cops do much to try and stop it.

What a cheap gubernatorial shot against the DARE programs in schools and all those cops — locals, state and federal — who are doing their damndest to keep kids and illicit drugs separated.

If some pothead lights up a reefer on the steps of a courthouse, he draws more media flies than a high noon hoist at Burger King. And AP photog Phil will be sure and get a shot of the cops cuffing the weed wacker for page one.

The problem with all this porta potty media hype is that kids love it. It plays cool, dude.

If the media were really interested in saving some kids from the scrambled brain farm, it should tell and retell the dangers of marijuana. Pot is a "gateway" drug. If a kid uses crack or LSD or heroin, he's almost certainly tried pot first.

A recent study by Bill Martin of the Virginia Commonwealth University showed that compulsive marijuana use may lead to an addiction similar to those produced by other illicit drugs.

And yet every year the Maine Legislature is con-ned into deliberation of a bill that will legalize marijuana in some form. And the vote is frightfully close after legislators get lobbied incessantly on the "harmlessness" of cannabis cavorting.

If pot is so harmless then why is it classified as an illicit drug by the federal government and all 50 states? The reason, you see, is because marijuana is harmful. Research continues to show that it damages memory, distorts perception, impairs judgment and complex motor skills, alters the heart rate and causes paranoia and lethargy.

And new research by Roger Hoffman and Robert Stephens at the University of Washington, like that of Bill Martin, shows that marijuana very well may be addictive.

All the above dangers are scoffed at by the potheads, of course, but they have not one smoke ring of evidence to the contrary.

If Gov. King wants to get Maine on the right move he should move the pot interdiction helos off the ground and over the Maine marijuana fields which have proliferated greatly since his stupid grounding order.

And yes, kids, there really is a DARE program and it, not the media, is telling the truth about the real dangers of marijuana use.

rivalry. The teams enjoy playing each other. It's always a very skill-oriented game, with ball skill and teamwork the key, rather than kicking the ball the farthest and pounding people," Remington said.

He is pleased with the way co-captains Ben Fogg and Cory Koch work with the team.

"Ben is the key to the defense. He's a real leader-type person. What Ben says, they do, and it works well. What's unique about this team is the leadership from the captains, and the willingness to follow on the part of everyone else," said Remington.

He said the teamwork goes so far as to take the form of self-evaluation.

"After one game they started talking about what had gone well, and what had not. Some people apologized for losing their tempers, and they even said the referees were good," he said. "It makes it enjoyable to work with them."

and railing were rotted, nearly half the cross braces were broken, as were two of the four guy wires.

Most of what's there now will come down, Haskell said. Only the four legs will remain from the current structure.

The renovated tower will be re-anchored and will sport a new platform, he said.

For more than 80 years prior to its closing, the tower on the peak of the 4,180-foot mountain offered fire watchers and hikers outstanding views of Mt. Washington, the White Mountains, the Baldpates, Umbagog Lake, the Mahoosuc range and beyond.

The summit of Old Speck is forested; without the tower there is no view.

The tower is reached by a 3.8-mile hike from Route 26 in Grafton Notch. Hikers on the Appalachian Trail can reach the tower by way of a quarter-mile spur trail.

If the weather over the scheduled weekend is not suitable, Haskell said, the project will probably have to be put off until the spring.

Drivers urged to watch out for school children

With Maine schools now open for the 1995-96 year, state officials are urging motorists to use extra caution.

"The rule of thumb is to expect the unexpected when it comes to children," said Richard E. Perkins, director of Highway Safety. He issued the following additional reminders:

--Be alert for children and youth walking or biking to school as you back out of your driveway.

--Slow down. Watch for students walking in the street, especially if there are no sidewalks.

--Watch for children and youth playing and congregating near bus stops.

--Be aware that children and youth who arrive late for the bus have only one thing in mind -- getting on the bus. They may dart out into the street without looking for traffic.

--Stop your car when you see red lights flashing on a school bus when on an undivided roadway or in a school yard. Yellow flashing lights indicate that the bus is preparing to stop. Red flashing lights indicate the bus is stopped and students are getting on or off.

--Remember, the speed limit is 15 m.p.h. when passing a school during recess or while children are going to or leaving school during opening or closing hours.

FALL GARDENING COURSE

The University of Maine Cooperative Extension will offer a fall garden program at the Telstar High School ITV site in Bethel. All sessions will run from 11:30 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., although the ITV rooms will open at 11 a.m.

On Sept. 14, Barbara Murphy, extension educator in Oxford County, will discuss extending the gardening season. Topics to be covered include using late season crops, season stretching products and techniques, and storage of fall crops.

On Sept. 21, Rick Kersbergen, extension educator in Waldo County, will discuss putting the garden to bed. He will talk about different cover crops and how to use them, cleaning up the garden and preparing the site for soil testing next year, and tool care.

On Sept. 28, Marjorie Hundhammer, extension educator in Hancock County, will explain composting from A to Z. She will talk about why composting is important, how to compost, worm composting, troubleshooting and using compost in the garden.

Preregistration is required for these sessions so handout materials will be available. To preregister, call Margo Dale at 207-581-3195 or 1-800-287-0274 (Maine only), with your name, address, phone number, and that you will be attending the Bethel site.

This program is free.

CHRISTIAN WOMEN UNITED

The Christian Women United will hold their monthly meeting at the Shorelands in Harrison on Tuesday, Sept. 19. The meal will be served at 11:30 a.m.

The speaker for the day will be Ginger Mae Dyer from Corinna.

Those who have not been contacted but would like a reservation may call Leora Whitney at 743-7221 or Pearl Anderson at 743-5724 by Wednesday, Sept. 13, 1995.

Conservation School Fall Festival

An open house will be held at the Maine Conservation School on Sunday, Sept. 24, from 1 to 4 p.m.

Activities will include dedication of new and renovated facilities, tours of buildings and grounds, celebration of the partnership with Unity College, outdoor skills events, face painting for children, canoeing, and hiking. Fall season refreshments will be served, such as pumpkin and apple pies and cookies, and cider.

"We are having this event to honor the many people, businesses, and organizations that have contributed to the success of the Maine Conservation School, particularly over the last four years. These 'Friends' have preserved our mission of educating children for what board members hope will be a life-long conservation ethic," said Melinda Remington, board member and event coordinator.

Jeffrey Parsons, board president and director of Bethel Outdoor Adventures said, "After losing all of our supplemental state funding overnight in 1991, we have come through an extremely difficult period. Had it not been for the commitment and generosity of hundreds of people, and numerous businesses, organizations, and foundations, we may not have made it. We want to take this opportunity to thank those people. Their support remains critical to the future of the school."

All Friends of the school will be welcome, and board and staff members will be on hand to greet them. Anyone planning to attend is asked to notify the school in advance at 665-2068.

Agnes Gray School

by Marta Clements

Another school year has begun, and my new school year resolution is to get back into the habit of writing a regular column.

There have been several changes so far this year. Mrs. Judith Loper and Mrs. Terry Merrill have moved on with their classes. Mrs. Loper will be teaching second grade this year, and Mrs. Merrill will be teaching third. Mrs. Cindy Mullen will be teaching grade one. Other changes include Mrs. Judith Florenz, who will not be the reading assistant this year but will be the LD assistant. Ms. Cynthia Kirchherr will be returning to our school for Title I Reading, and our kindergarten teacher, Mrs. Denise Biggers, will become full-time with the added position of Reading Recovery teacher.

This is a fairly new and exciting approach to bring readers up to grade level. In addition, we are welcoming two new faces: Ms. Julianne MacGown-Gaboury, who will be teaching art, and Mrs. Andrea Tucker, who will be the teacher assistant in grade four. Faculty and students alike are glad to be back with old friends and glad to welcome new ones.

We will miss Kimberly Bryan and Jim Burke, but we wish them well in their new endeavors. Ms. Bryan will be teaching kindergarten and reading recovery at the Fox School, and Mrs. Burke is taking a year's sabbatical to study in the field of computer science. We will miss you.

Several new students have been enrolled, and I will welcome them by name next week.

In anticipation of the first week, lots of activity was going on before school even started. On Thursday, Aug. 30, an open house was held for the kindergarten and first-grade parents and children. All teachers were in preparing their rooms and lining up activities for the coming weeks. Book Fair material arrived for the fall book fair, which will take place next week at the open house at the Agnes Gray School. Parents, be on the lookout for all the information that comes home during the first week of school.

A good number of second- and third-graders enjoyed Dynamite Days with Mrs. Loper and Mrs. Merrill. The children were invited to come to school two mornings in August, before school opened, for an orientation concerning the upcoming year. Activities were presented that involved good team building skills, and Caring, Cooperation, and Communication was the theme. The activities provide learning and fun. A variety of learning stations involving all subject areas left the children wanting more. Mrs. Kathy Burke entertained and taught musical activities. Mrs. Loper and Mrs. Merrill want to thank all who participated in any way. They felt that Dynamite Days was a huge success.

We are off and running for another busy, productive year. See you next week.

Bea and Frank Lowell are back home from Alaska, where they spent a couple of months fishing and socializing and fixing up their newly acquired property.

Ras Bachelder celebrated his 70th birthday on Sunday, Aug. 27, at the Grange Hall with friends and relatives. Here are some who were there: Julia Goodwin (his mother-in-law); Wilma Stewart of Thomdike and Hilma Caldwell of Unity (Julia's twin daughters); Mary Nile of Mexico; Persis Post of Bethel; Michelle and Paul Josephson (it was also his birthday); Lauren Smith and P. Thomas O'Donald (grandson) of Portland; Aaron Bachelder (son) and wife Colleen with their children Jennifer, Holly, Krista and Aaron from Mars Hill; Justin and Gary Wight, Rhetta Berry, John and Nancy Wight, Betsy and Dick Clark all of Newry; Becky Melchior of Hyde Park, Mass.; Jack Morton and his two beautiful sons, Garret and Noah, of Newry; Cheryl Lord of Mexico; Cathy Ann Tague of Rumford; Arlene Myhrall of Mexico; Linda York of Bar Mills; Patti Greig of Bethel; and yours truly from North Newry. There were a few more people there, but we didn't get all their names. I hope they will forgive me. It was a fun day, noisy and chummy, with lots of food and lots of laughter. Happy Birthday, Ras, and many more. P.S. I hope I spelled the names right!

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Louise Tetley, and Olive

Anderson were at the Oxford Lanes one day last week bowling for fun. Betsy was high on the singles with one string of 100; and she was also high on the triples. She had two spares, Karlene had one strike, Louise had two spares, and Olive had one spare.

South Woodstock

by Andrea Wing

School started again for another year. It is a special time for the students to get back into attending, especially for the ones who are starting school for the first time this year. Desmond Cox started his first year of school at Woodstock Elementary in Bryant Pond.

Becky Chandler has returned home from Alaska, where she spent the summer. I haven't spoken with her, but her father, Jim, said she had a very enjoyable summer.

One birthday I missed in August was Burnie Rice's. Sorry! I hope you had a nice birthday. Burnie, September birthdays coming up are: Doug Wing, Jaime Leonard, Ricky Mack, Walter Appleby III, Rick Wing, Dotte Critser, Amy Merrill, Hazel Dillingham, Maude Alice Hadley, Samantha Poland and my brother, Buster Poland. Hope you all have a nice and happy birthday and many more.

Charbel Poland had a special birthday and was well remembered by her family and friends. Burna Wilson called her and wished her a happy birthday, along with her daughter, Beverly Dayton from Florida, and granddaughter, Lani Bertrum. Charbel said she received flowers and gifts.

Jessie Hart is going to the doctor today, she's in hopes to get her cast removed from her leg before school starts. Jessie will be attending Oxford Hills this year, where she will be a freshman.

Randi Mack is entering the first grade and her sister Megan will be in the fourth grade. They couldn't wait to go to school the first day.

Kellie Hart and Jessie saw two bear cubs crossing the road below Bud Harlow's one morning this week.

I am traveling to Lewiston for PUVA treatments for psoriasis three times a week for a while. It gets quite boring but it does help.

Tax bills were received this week; mine is in the mail today.

Richard Wing will be on a week's vacation this coming week.

It looks like fall is on us already. Summer goes too fast. The air is quite cold most mornings. Fall is my favorite time of year - except you know winter is right around the corner.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society, reports the society has many exhibits and research materials that are useful to the public. It records information about the people, places and events in Woodstock and the area. Ray and Annella Burnham watched the museum lately. Larry reports that he has been reading some American short stories.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson
Members and friends of the church celebrated the East Stoneham Congregational Church's 100th birthday here on Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday, there was a homecoming fair with memorabilia table, white elephant table, fish pond for the children, balloons, face painting, "Stoneham Remembered" books and recipe booklets with recipes of former cooks of Stoneham. At noon hot dogs, hamburgers, chips and cold drinks were served and the Thrift Shop was open and the Bake Sale was going on. It was a beautiful day and there was a good turnout of people during the day.

On Sunday, there was a special church service with Janice Wilcox at the altar. Other ministers attending and participating were Mr. Strong from Charleston, Mass.; Peter Parent from southern New Hampshire and Susan Curtis from Massachusetts. All spoke briefly and fondly remembering their times spent here in Stoneham. Others brought greetings and congratulations to the East Stoneham Church.

Gladys Parker Kilgore was mentioned as being the oldest living member. She is 99 years old and resides here in East Stoneham. The children presented posters they had made for the occasion, and Josh Johnson gave a narration about the history of the church. Marilyn Jones also read a short history of the church and named the oldest members and when they joined the church. Many thanks are given to all who worked on this program of events.

A nice framed plaque was presented to the church from members of the State Legislature and Representatives congratulating the East Stoneham Church on its 100 years of service to Stoneham residents and friends.

After the services, people gathered together in the vestry to enjoy Happy Birthday cake and ice cream and to visit and reminisce. The beautifully decorated cake was made by Sherry Sullivan. The raffle was drawn for the beautiful handmade quilt made by Stoneham residents and was won by Joyce Gouin of Norway. The pretty pillow was won by Marsha Elliott of Bridgton.

Everyone agreed that it was a good two-day celebration and for a good cause. It was good for everyone in many ways, and may the church prosper and bring in more people to worship and to give thanks for everything.

Shirley and Everett Danforth treated Winfield and Fran Adams to a trip recently to Nashville, Tenn. They toured Nashville and the home of the stars and Music City and Opryland Theme Park, etc. This was a "pre-50th anniversary" celebration for Win and Fran. They reported a real good time.

Richard and Debra Herick and Wendy from Oxford visited Frances Grant this past weekend.

By the time you read this school will be in session, so everyone please drive extra carefully.

Nat Mason got hurt recently in the woods and will be out of work for quite some time. The Stoneham Volunteer Department is going to put on a public supper at the Fire Station on Saturday, Sept. 16, for his benefit.

As you know, there is a church public supper on Sept. 14, and on Sept. 12 the Oxford County Republicans will be meeting for their monthly supper and meeting. This will take place at the East Stoneham Church vestry and will be hosted by the local Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

Kate Flynn is still in St. Mary's Hospital in Lewiston and would surely appreciate hearing from you people. She is always thinking of and doing things for us and now it's time to think of and do things for her. Hope you're getting better every day, Kate.

Wilma Taylor came home from the Norway Convalescent Center on Tuesday. Welcome home, Wilma.

Many hours I spend in my lawn swing and "Chippy" comes for a visit. He likes to eat seeds from my lap, a paper beside me, or on the ground at my feet. He carries away more seeds than he eats. He is a friendly, happy little creature preparing for the long, cold winter to come.

Mr. Haury Woodpecker surely was a surprise to me, when he made himself at home on the hummingbird feeder. He actually reached in for a drink. He usually makes a drumming sound on some resonant dead tree, branch, or pole.

Rena Curtis and several of her family went to Patten on a camping trip for the weekend.

Zilpha DiArenzo's daughter, husband and children have returned to their home after spending several days with her.

I went with Jean Schafer and two friends to the Lornell Gardens in Jay on Tuesday. The flowers were too lovely to describe. The trip was very lovely with the many trees and the flowing river.

David, Sally and Mary joined us for dinner at the farm after attending a car show in Rumford on Sunday.

Jamie Orrok, daughter of Jenny Orrok, left Saturday for her studies at Keene State College, Keene, N.H. Good luck to her.

Percy and Robyn McGinnis, daughter Michelle and Jerry Bernier were in New Hampshire on Sunday for a family reunion.

Linda Tyler of Dixfield hosted an end-of-the-summer cookout at her home on Sunday. Those attending were Louise Chapman, Mac, Tammy, Shane, Jason and Bridget Billings, Sue, Tony, Joelle and Errol Silver, and Big Jake.

Tammy and Shane Billings were in Farmington on Tuesday doing some shopping.

Joelle and Errol Silver attended a birthday party for Austri Silver on Saturday. Pizza, cake and ice cream were enjoyed by all the children.

Rob Davis took a jeep ride over Billings Hill to Concord recently and enjoyed it very much. He reports the road isn't too good in some spots.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway and Debra Millett attended the Circle Supper at Albany on Thursday, and on Saturday they went to Sweden to a supper with Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Jordan.

Ray and Shawn Crockett visited their grandparents on Thursday for the day.

This is the 15th year Larry Billings has served as curator of the Historical Society. Much work has been done lately on the reserve books in the museum. Society members try to bring interesting programs and exhibits about the area and general topics of interest. The museum has had many visitors this summer. Everyone is invited to join the society and make a contribution to its activities.

Bob and Kathy Bessette, Emily, Marc and Timothy of Fairfax, Vt. spent a week with her parents, Vance and Connie Bacon. On Thursday, they and Connie spent the day at Boothbay Harbor.

Bill and Ginny Aridas returned to Holbrook, N.Y., on Saturday after spending the past week at their cabin.

Carolyn Snow of Bath spent last weekend with her cousin, Sally Doughty, to celebrate Sally's birthday. We won't say how many years.

Sally Berry, Daniel, Ryan and Kate were in Rochester, N.Y., for the past two weeks. During that time, Daniel and Ryan spent a week at "Family Camp" with their grandparents, Larry and Laura Davis.

Last weekend Vance and Connie Bacon camped at Winslow Memorial Park in Freeport.

Visiting with Norma Heikkinen this week are Howard and Betty Smith and Betty's sister, Eleanor Noville all from Pittsburgh, Penn.

The E.B. Forbes-Goodwill Group will meet on Tuesday, Sept. 12, for a potluck dinner at noon at the church.

Sympathy is extended to Lena Mustonen upon the death of her sister, Elma Aldridge.

Don't Get Thin

Get fat; get nice and plump; there is safety in plumpness.

Summer has tried your food-volts; winter is coming to try your health-mill. Fall is the time to brace yourself.

But weather is tricky; look out! Look out for colds especially!

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the subtlest of helps. It's food, the tastiest food in the world; it is more than food; it helps you digest your food; it helps you maintain it.

Songo Pond

by Alice Kimball

A few very light sprinkles of rain was all the moisture we got from the cloudy skies last Thursday afternoon and evening. The hot, dry weather over the past month has burned the lawns, lowered wells and turned the leaves and increased the very high fire danger. Please be careful. Also, school buses are on the roads several times a day. Watch out for the children.

Norma and I visited a day recently with Mrs. Mildred Bennett (nee Kimball) in Center Lovell.

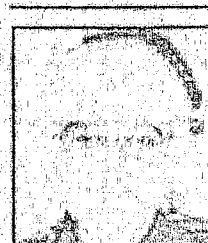

Kathy Gatchell was an overnight visitor of her grandparents last Friday. Norma drove her home to Portland on Saturday.

Sheri Sovan of Auburn was an overnight visitor here last Saturday. Her mother, Tami, and Chris and Heather Bernard also visited with us.

The Paul Poissons of Nashua, N.H., the Harry Probes of Newburyport, Mass. and the Reid Warrens of Gilmanston, N.H. were at their cottages over the weekend and longer.

Miracle drugs are nothing new. Moses had two tablets that could cure the world's ills.

East Bethel

Howdy, folks. These cool mornings make it feel like fall before its time. However, fall is fast approaching us once again and too soon for me.

Last Monday, we had to go to Norway in the morning so that I could get my monthly blood check done once more.

That evening we attended Gentlemen's Night at Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond. I served as chaplain for the evening and Peggy didn't have to fill any office, which was quite a change for her. Several visitors from other Granges were present and many of them filled an office. Richard Felt was lecturer for the evening and had a very nice program, which was enjoyed by all. A bountiful lunch after the meeting helped make the whole meeting complete.

Our Tuesday visitors were Kaye and Otto Blossley and their friends; both couples are neighbors in Eustis, Fla.

Tuesday afternoon, we went to the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills to help prepare and serve the Grange-hosted Musical Supper and dance. The supper was well attended, as we sold 198 supper tickets. There were many who didn't buy a supper ticket because they were involved somehow.

We worked around here Wednesday forenoon, then had an early lunch and went to the Maine Medical Center in Portland to visit brother Bryce. We found him well on the way to recovery and doing quite well. He had surgery at Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway, and because of complications that they couldn't deal with in Norway he was transferred to the Portland hospital. He returned home on Thursday and is now doing much better.

Kaye and Otto Blossley called Thursday afternoon. They had been to Portland to visit Bryce Yates and found him getting ready to leave for home. From there they went to visit L.L. Bean's before returning to Sunday River.

Friday forenoon, we made our usual trip to the Shop 'n' Save store to pick up our weekly supply of groceries and to do other errands. I had to get more sunflower seeds to feed the birds. It you have them to watch, it seems to be quite necessary to feed them.

Friday afternoon, Peggy made a trip to the Town Office to get her newly purchased car licensed.

Sister Laura came down from East Andover Saturday morning to pick over our green pole beans. She stayed for dinner.

Saturday evening, Peggy attended the dance at Locke Mills and had the usual good time. She usually dances nearly all of the dances wherever she goes.

Sunday lacked much excitement as we worked around here all day. Much of my time was spent watering part of the garden. It's so dry that even the weeds are refusing to grow.

Richard Felt and Lucy Robbins called on the Lovejoys one day last week.

Saturday afternoon, the Lovejoy family and the Raymond Macks attended a family get-together at the home of Jay Whittemore in Oxford.

Hope Lovejoy accompanied the Victor Haverinens to Vermont for a few days.

Jenny Haverinens spent last week with the Lovejoy girls.

Louis Marcotte from Rumford called at the Lovejoy home on Saturday.

There will be a dance at the Town Hall in Locke Mills on Sept. 9.

CURTISES CELEBRATE 50TH

On Saturday, Aug. 26, Ervil (Junior) and Ruth Curtis, formerly of Bethel, were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary by their four children: Linda Westleigh of West Bethel, Donna Gray of North Vassalboro, Nadine Hughes of Auburn, and Henry and Arthur, both of Skowhegan, at a party held at Westleigh's home in West Bethel.

The home and grounds were elaborately decorated in white and gold. The tiered anniversary cake, decorated with fresh yellow roses, was made by Hometown Bakery of Bethel.

There were 53 invited guests from various parts of Maine and Massachusetts.

The couple were married Sept. 2, 1945. Anyone wishing to send their best wishes may do so at P.O. Box 804, Norridgewock, ME 04276.

TROUT LAKE CAMP REUNION

Fifty-six former Trout Lake campers, staff and guests attended a reunion of Trout Lake Camp for Boys, East Stoneham, this past weekend. Activities were divided between the camp and Sunday River.

Karl Reierle, of Ogdensburg, N.J., was chairman of the reunion planning committee. He was assisted by his wife, Marcia, Fran Hamilton of East Stoneham and Glenn Moore of Lovell, who acted as master of ceremonies. Betty Hamilton Dabney of New Jersey and McWain Pond, Waterford, daughter of Charles W. Hamilton, founder of Trout Lake Camp in 1935, was also active in the committee. Mike DeArmitt of Brunswick, who owned and operated the camp for 15 years, was a popular guest.

Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin of California, a camper of the early '40s and second man to walk on the moon, showed video tapes of his lunar walk and answered questions. Upon returning to earth and viewing the newscasts, Buzz made the following comment to Neal Armstrong, "You know, Neal, we missed the whole thing."

EAST ANDOVER PICNIC

On Aug. 27, the East Andover Community Club sponsored a community picnic with 84 in attendance. Picnics were started in 1939 and stopped in 1959, except for the war years. In 1969, after a span of 10 years, the last picnic was held. Twenty-six years later the club decided to renew the project. Three charter members were present: Lila Farrington, Charlotte Senneit and Violet Swain. Forty-four families attended from Maine, Massachusetts, and New Hampshire.

Present officers of the club, Barbara G. Meisner, president, and Violet P. Swain, treasurer, were co-chairpersons.

The picnic was held in Schneider's Grove. A friend, George Ellis, provided free hot dogs with all the fixings. The club gave free sodas and ice cream to all through 17 years old.

Prior to the dinner, contests were held. These were planned by Barbara Meisner, Marge Stinson and Joan Carney. The only baby entered in the first category was nine-month-old Nicholas Pierce. Decorating a vehicle were Matthew Farrington and Jeffrey Pierce.

Appearing as a famous person or storybook character were Lindsey Farrington and Cynthia Farrington. A decorated hat was won by Erika Davis. Judges were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Towne, new residents of East Andover and Frida Farrington Downs, a former resident of East Andover, and her husband of Rochester, N.H.

Following dinner, games were enjoyed. These were planned by Betty Moore, Lorena Simmons and Mary Bailey. Winners were Erika Davis, Ben Bailey, Jessie Farrington, Alyssa Holmquist, Lindsey Farrington, Steve Grant, Cindy Farrington, Matthew Farrington, Jeffrey Pierce and Nathan Knowles.

The oldest lady present was Vivian Barlow, 86-plus; the oldest man, George Crooker, 89; youngest, Nicholas Pierce; couple married the longest, Jean and Lester White, 59 years; guest coming the longest distance for the picnic, Andrew Taylor of Quincy, Mass.; the family most represented was Jean and Lester White, with 22, followed by Lila Farrington with 10. Anyone living in East Andover, or who had lived there, was invited to attend.

Other club members helping, not listed above, were: Beatrice Schneider, Dolly Jones, Evelyn Bell, Glenna Allen, Dolly Arsenault and Phyllis Farrar. Dolly Jones turned bags of popcorn.

Following the picnic, Norma Farrington, a member of the Historical Society, opened the former East Andover school house, that closed in 1958, for anyone wishing to visit. Thirty-four signed the guest book. Violet Swain, a former teacher, gave the building to the Historical Society in 1991.

Done in 1887, it was found

200 years of local art goes on display

By ALISON ALOISIO
Local art that spans and links generations will go on display Friday at Gould Academy's Owen Art Gallery.
The show is part of the 1996 Bethel Bicentennial celebration. Titled "200 Years of Bethel Art and Artists: Visual Links of Community, Past and Present," the display will include more than 100 works, some dating back to the 19th century. Nan Timberlake, chairman of the Education Subcommittee of the Bicentennial Committee, has been on the hunt for artwork since late May. That process has included putting out requests for contributions, as well as digging around in attics and old buildings.
The inter-generational theme is illustrated by three entries from the Glines family. Philippa Glines, her father-in-law Herschel, and her mother Olga Seidensticker are all represented in the show.
The artwork and its titles provide a taste of life in Bethel over the years: "Skating on the Common" (Helen Morton); "Still Life, Lemonade" (Marah Stevens Webster); "Middle Intervale Church" (Sue Wight); "Town Farm" (Barry Freeman); "Toward White Mountains" (Faye Taylor); "Home: From the Hill" (Betty Woronoff); "Carter Brick-End House" (Barry Freeman); and "Summer Camp" (Scotty Bowhay) are examples. Timberlake hopes the show will build interest in the approaching bicentennial, and encourage people to think about where the town has been and where it is going.
"It's an opportunity to reflect in the midst of change. It's a good chance to get our bearings," she said.

Hunter E. Chase, 86, of Sweden, died Tuesday evening, Aug. 29, 1995, at the Veterans Home in South Paris.

He was born in Derry, N.H., son of Albert and Lillian Parker Chase and attended Derry schools.

Mr. Chase had been an electrician and lineman for the Boston Edison Company before he came to Sweden in 1950. He worked as an appliance repairman for C.N. Brown Co. for 18 years. In 1968 he became a self-employed electrician.

Mr. Chase was a member of the Sweden Volunteer Fire Dept., the National Rifle Association, the South Waterford Grange and the Fryeburg-Lovell VFW. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II.

He married Otta L. Grafton in 1927. She died in 1987.

Surviving are a son, Donald C. of Bethel and eight grandchildren.

He was predeceased by a son, Sgt. Charles F. U.S. Air Force; a daughter, Nancy L. and a grandson, Alai who was lost on Mt. McKinley in Alaska.

DR. WILLIAM H. DUNTON

Dr. William H. "Bud" Dunton, 74, died Thursday evening, Aug. 31, 1995, at Central Maine Medical Center, Lewiston.

Dr. Dunton was born in Rumford on Aug. 17, 1921, son of Charles O. and Gladys Haukey Dunton. He earned the former Dorothy Merrill of Concord, N.H. in 1943.

He was educated in Rumford school and graduated from Stephens High School in the class of 1939. In 1962 he graduated with honors from the University of Maine with a B.A. degree in education, received a master's degree in guidance from that university in 1964, and a Ph.D. in education from Temple University, Philadelphia, Pa., in 1979.

Early in life he worked in the trades before pursuing a career in education. He taught at Cony High School in Augusta and served as guidance director at the Webster and Walton Junior High schools in Auburn. He went on to create and administer the Manpower Development and Training program in Lewiston. The 10 years as director of M.D.T.A. was his proudest accomplishment because it was his chance to enrich the lives of so many Maine people. He later served as vocational director of the Northern Oxford County Vocational Area (NOVA) in Rumford, and the Northern N.H. Vocational Area in Berlin, N.H. After retiring in 1984, Bill and his wife Dorothy settled in Gorham, N.H., where they ran a bed and breakfast.

He was a lifelong member of the Rotary Club in several areas, the Fraternity of Kappa Delta Pi, and served on the boards of numerous civic organizations throughout his career.

Dr. Dunton is survived by his wife of 52 years; a son and daughter-in-law, William C. and Mary Dunton; two grandchildren; and a brother, Kimball H. Dunton of Oyster Bay, N.Y. He was predeceased by a sister, Virginia Hutchins, who died May 13, 1994.

NORMA R. JODREY

Norma (Rolfe) Jodrey, 80, of Clark Street, Bethel, died suddenly and unexpectedly early Friday morning, Sept. 1, 1995, on Jarvi Road, Minot.

Mrs. Jodrey was born in Albany on Sept. 24, 1914, daughter of the late Edwin and Alice (Mills) Rolfe. She attended the Mason one-room school, walking the five miles from her home with her brothers and sisters. She graduated from Gould Academy in 1934.

In 1935, she married Walter Jodrey, and several years later they established their home in Bethel, which she maintained for nearly 60 years. Norma is probably best remembered as the owner, behind the counter, of the Bethel Spa, which she operated for nearly 10 years. Prior to that she was a clerk in Bryant's I.G.A. Store in Bethel, and in her later years assisted her granddaughter as a manager of a sportswear shop in Ogunquit.

Mrs. Jodrey was always involved in the special happenings of Bethel. She was a driving force in the creation of the Bethel Winter Carnival, was instrumental in the creation of the Bethel Bazaar, which evolved into the present-day Mollycoddle Day. She was an original investor of Sunday River Skiway, and for many years served the Bethel Chamber of Commerce, as an officer and ardent supporter. In the last few years, she was involved in the restoration of the Bethel Common Fountain. She was a member of the West Parish Congregational Church of Bethel. She also held membership in Sunset Lodge, Order of the Rebekahs, and for many years was a 4-H leader.

Besides her dear and loved companion for the last 15 years, Alva Jarvi, at whose home she died, she is survived by a daughter, Barbara Merrill of Ogunquit; a son, Arlan R. Jodrey of Bethel; four sisters, Thelma Card of Norway, Ruth Kirtledge of Hanover, Betty Grover of Oisfield, and Arlene Merrill of East Stoneham; a brother, Harold E.

Rolfe of Bethel; five grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren, and many nieces and nephews. Mrs. Jodrey was predeceased by a son, Melvin A. Jodrey, who died Aug. 14, 1960, and three brothers, Nelson, Marshall and Winfield.

Funeral services were held at West Parish Congregational Church, Bethel, on Tuesday morning, Sept. 5, with the Rev. Brendon Bass officiating. Interment was in Riverside Cemetery, Bethel. Friends who wish may make memorial contributions in Norma's memory to Stephens Memorial Hospital, Norway, ME 04268, or West Parish Congregational Church, Bethel, ME 04217.

GLENDON G. CALEF

Glendon G. "Skip" Calef, 70, died Saturday, Sept. 2, 1995, at his residence on Armstrong Road, Dixfield, where he had resided since 1978. He was formerly of East Hartford, Conn.

Mr. Calef was born Aug. 9, 1925, in Norway, the son of Hiram and Grace (Brown) Calef. He attended Norway schools and graduated from Norway High School in the Class of 1944 and from the Maine Maritime Academy, Castine, in the Class of 1945.

He was employed by the Wilner Wood Products Co. and worked at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft in East Hartford, Conn. for 22 years. He returned to Maine to work for Plumbago Mining Co. as a gem stone cutter for three years. He also worked for Hanover Dowel Co. in Bethel and retired in 1987. He was a member of the Oxford County Mineral & Gem Association and was widely known for his excellent lapidary (gem-cutter) work and one-of-a-kind gem stones. He had attended the United Methodist Church.

He was married in South Portland on Dec. 30, 1946, to the former Catherine Scribner, who survives of Dixfield. Other survivors include five children and their spouses: Linda and Richard Beauchemin of Glastonbury, Conn., Bruce and Linda Calef of Manchester, Conn., the Rev. Dana and Lois Calef of Joplin, Mo., John Walker and Dr. Karen Calef of South Windham, Conn., and Craig Calef of East Hartford, Conn.; 10 grandchildren and one great-grandson. He was predeceased by his brother, Keith Calef and sister, Mrs. Wilma Allen.

Funeral services will be held today, Wednesday, Sept. 6, 10 a.m., at Meader & Son Funeral Home, Rumford, with the Rev. Dana Calef officiating. Interment will be in Norway Pine Grove Cemetery, South Paris. Those who desire, please contribute to the Maine Heart Association, 20 Winter Street, P.O. Box 346, Augusta, ME 04332, in his memory.

There will be a celebration Sunday, Sept. 10 honoring Amanda Fother, a National Training Laboratories member who died of cancer on July 23, 1995. She had worked in Bethel many summers as a workshop trainer and the overall dean.

In remembrance of her commitment to NTL Institute and the personal and professional growth of black women, NTL Institute has set up a scholarship fund for women of color. Anyone interested in giving a tax deductible contribution to the Amanda Fother Fund, can do so by sending a check to NTL Institute, P.O. Box 359, Bethel, ME 04217.

The memorial celebration will be held Sunday at the NTL Founders House (Gehring Clinic) at 7:15 a.m. Friends and colleagues from the Bethel community, and all other locations, are welcome.

NAZARENE SERVICE

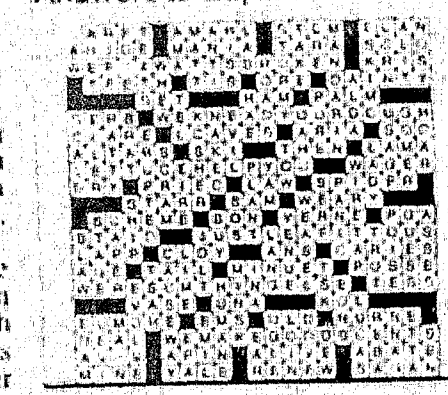

True Life Ministries will hold special services Sept. 8 to 10 at the Bethel Church of the Nazarene. The first service will be at 7 p.m. Friday. At 2 p.m. Saturday, there will be separate services for women, men, kids, and teens. At 3 p.m., all groups will come together for a joint service. Sunday's services will be at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m.
